DILAS Diodenlaser GmbH and m2k-Laser Combined

MAINZ, Germany, January 22, 2016 – ROFIN’s wholly-owned subsidiaries DILAS Diodenlaser GmbH (Mainz, Germany) and m2k-Laser (Freiburg, Germany) have merged effective January 1, 2016. Since m2k-laser has been mainly supplying their products to DILAS GmbH, this merger was a reasonable consequence and will further increase the efficiency of both entities. The combined unit will be headquartered in Mainz, Germany, and will operate under the well-known DILAS brand. The site in Freiburg will remain at this location and is being transformed into a business unit of DILAS Diodenlaser GmbH, called DILAS Semiconductor.

With design and epitaxial service on diode laser chip level from Freiburg, and diode laser packaging, beam shaping, and systems technology from Mainz, the two sites provide complementary technologies, and the merger is a strategic and logical consequence of the long-term cooperation which both sites have since years. The combined company will create a competitive footing with our industry in expanding our portfolio of products and technologies.

Sales activities for all DILAS products will be combined and can be reached at sales@dilas.de for sales and technical inquiries.

The now expanded product lines from DILAS will be displayed at SPIE Photonics West in San Francisco at DILAS’ booth, #4737, North Hall.
